GERMAN LINE
BEYOND ROME
BROKEN AGAINFIGHTING AT TERNI,
45 MILES NORTH OF CAPITAL

BY EDWARD KENNEDY

Rome, June 15 (AP)—Bursting through another line of defenses hastily thrown up by the retreating Germans beyond Rome, Allied forces have captured the large Italian towns of Orvieto, Aquila and Terni in a general advance and were fighting tonight in the outskirts of the important industrial and communications center of Terni, 45 miles north of the capital.

American troops shoving up the Tyrrhenian coast captured Magliano and threatened Grosseto, only 14 miles from Grosseto, after having seized vast quantities of Nazi food supplies at Orbetello. They had entirely cleared lateral Highway 74, running inland from the coast past the northern shore of Lake Bolsena.

Coastal Flank Collapses

Eighth army columns, now carrying the brunt of the inland advance, fought their way into Orvieto, 57 miles northwest of Rome; Narni, 41 miles due north of the capital, and Aquila, 54 miles to the northeast, above Avezzano. Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's forces were checked temporarily on the outskirts of Terni by blown bridges and a stiff German counterattack.

(Secretary of War Stimson said the Nazis' right, or coastal flank again had collapsed before the Fifth army's drive, and commented that the enemy could not send further reinforcements to Italy without affecting other fronts.)

It was reported that French-American divisions had reached Italy, but Allied forces driving north and northwestward from Rome still were encountering only rear-guard elements of the shattered 14th army. There was conjecture that the Nazis might save the new divisions for a determined stand somewhere in northern Italy, perhaps on the so-called Florence-Pisa line.

Saline River Crossed

The pursuing Allies continued to capture sizable groups of prisoners, one American unit bagging 300 in the past 24 hours. At several points the Germans resorted to the use of cavalry to check Allied vanguards, and the accurate and heavy fire of their mobile artillery played a big part in slowing the advance of the Fifth and Eighth armies in recent days.

Today's Allied communique said the enemy's stiffened resistance "has been at least temporarily overcome," and that "important gains have been made all along the front." It reported more Allied troops had crossed the Saline river, just above Pescara in the Adriatic sector.

Government Loses
In Wards Lawsuit

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The federal government today lost for the second time its attempt to secure U. S. district court dismissal of an injunction suit brought against it by Montgomery Ward and company.

The government asked that the suit be dismissed in the light of a recent U. S. court of appeals ruling that orders of the War Labor Board are not subject to court review.

Treatment Does Not
Decrease Paralysis

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor
Chicago, June 15 (AP)—Seven physicians who in the last two years investigated the Kenny treatment for infantile paralysis reported today that so far as they could find in 740 cases examined, this treatment does not prevent or decrease the amount of paralysis resulting from the disease. They said 650 of the cases had received the Kenny treatment.

The report was made to the convention of the American Medical Association.

Miss Kenny, who was not present at the meeting, replied in an interview putting it up to the American people and the medical profession whether she should remain and continue her work, or go back to Australia where she originated her methods in the bush 35 years ago.

She quoted medical authorities in this country supporting her on one of the principal points in the controversy raised by today's committee report. He claims of success are based on a concept of infantile paralysis different from that of the medical profession, and this concept is one issue.

She maintains that what goes on in the muscles themselves at the time of the sickness is largely responsible for the later paralysis. The medical concept is that this muscular disturbance is not so important, but that nerve destruction causes the paralysis.

Steamer Explosion

Injury To Seaman

MacInaw City, Mich., June 15 (AP)—A midnight explosion aboard the Pittsburgh Steamship Co.'s 614-foot freighter John Hulst injured a member of the crew, ripped off several hatch covers, and resulted in a fire that caused minor damage.

The injured seaman, Ed Caro of Duluth, suffered first degree burns and other injuries. Coast Guardsmen took him to a St. Ignace hospital.

Marine sources attributed explosion and fire to spontaneous combustion in the vessel's cargo.

FINNS RETREAT
TOWARD VIIPURIReds Open Great Hole
In Karelian Isthmus
Defenses

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM

London, June 15. (AP)—The Russians' drive for possession of Finland advanced farther up the Karelian Isthmus today with Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's troops capturing 17 more fortified Finnish strongpoints along the bloody road to Viipuri, Moscow announced tonight.

The Finns, taking advantage of every natural obstacle and fighting from strongly-entrenched permanent defense positions, were said to have resisted fiercely but vainly.

Moscow said Govorov's army in six days of battle had now advanced 25 miles through the first and second Finnish defense zones and widened the breach to 47 miles.

During savage fighting Tuesday Soviet troops were reported to have opened a gaping hole in the Finns' second great belt of permanent defenses between Mustomaki and Kutoose and captured two important towns—Mustomaki, a railway station 37 miles from Viipuri on the line to Leningrad, and Ino, a coastal community south of Mustomaki.

The stubbornly resisting Finns were suffering enormous losses in manpower as well as great quantities of war material, the broadcast Soviet communique stated.

There was no change Thursday on the long Russian-German front, Moscow said, but the Red air force again bombed strategic German centers in Poland, hitting airdromes in the area of Bialystok, Baranowice and Luniniec during the night.

TRACTOR KILLS BOY

Dryden, Mich., June 15 (AP)—Neil Haynes, 12, was killed today when run over by a tractor on the Fred Dornberger farm near here. The boy, who had hurt his hand, was resting beside a tree. Dornberger drove the tractor past the tree and was snagged by a grape vine and thrown from the tractor, which continued under its own power and struck the boy.

NORMANDY BEACHHEAD.—(By wireless)—On the way to the invasion I rode an LST—the watery workhorse of this war. We carried armored reconnaissance troops.

We felt good about our position in the convoy, for we were about a third of the way back in the column. That meant we had ships on all sides of us and we wouldn't be on the outside in case of attack.

Our convoy was made up entirely of LST's. Each of us towed a big steel pontoon section, these to be used as barges and docks in the shallow waters along the beach. And behind each pontoon we also tow-

CARENTAN

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Friday, June 16 (AP)—American troops slashing westward from Carentan on a 10-mile front have reached firm ground within six miles of La Haye du Puits, junction of the last German-held rail-highway lifeline to the port of Cherbourg, and within 4 1/2 miles of the secondary junction point of St. Saviour-Le-Comte in what was officially described today as "steady progress."

In the developing drive to cut off and capture the Cherbourg peninsula, similar steady advances were reported in a mid-night communique from supreme headquarters for a less clearly-defined thrust through the lowlands between the Vire and Elle rivers southeast of Carentan.

Road Cut

This advance appeared to be aimed towards St. Jean de Daye, on the highway linking St. Lo and Carentan. Extent of the gain was not disclosed officially, but it appeared probable that the road already had been cut about five miles west of Lisson.

On the extreme right end of the Allies' beachhead in Normandy, American capture of the coastal village of Quineville and surrounding territory was declared to have provided "a valuable new outlet from the beaches."

On the eastern, or left, wing of the beachhead, held by British and Canadian forces, violent German armored counterattacks were repulsed with what the Allied communique called "considerable loss to the enemy."

These were the principal gains in the tenth day of the Allied invasion of France, which saw the offensive all along the 100-mile lines gather force and either gain

PROGRESS SLOW

Drags Through Four Days At Mason

Mason, Mich., June 15. (AP)—The tedious task of selecting a jury to try 23 defendants named in a legislative graft conspiracy carried through its fourth day in the Ingham county circuit court today with little sign of real headway.

Of the first panel of 160 prospective jurors, 13 were seated tentatively in the jury box at the close of today's session of court; all the rest but two had been excused, and only 25 of the 230 peremptory challenges allowed the prosecution and defense had been used. The defense expended 16 of its 115 challenges, the prosecution nine.

A special panel of 160 prospective jurors is to report to the court tomorrow.

The defendants are accused of conspiracy to corrupt the legislature, through the passing of bribes.

Eight other crewmen who had been carried by their parachutes a short distance into the channel and were picked up immediately. All but one have been returned to their British base.

Liberated French Given Instructions
By Gen. De Gaulle

BY ALEX H. SINGLETON
London, June 15 (AP)—General Charles De Gaulle announced today that he had left instructions for administration of French civilian affairs during his visit to the Normandy beachhead, and this suggested an effort to eliminate the chief difficulty in British-American-French relations.

A communique issued through the French press service, emphasizing the "atmosphere of immense fervor" with which it reported De Gaulle was received in Allied-liberated towns Wednesday, said he gave directions, "regarding resumption of civil administration, organization of supplies and public relief."

"Softening Up" Of Nippon

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, June 15. — America's new Super Fortresses bombed Japan's homeland today and the Tokyo radio, acknowledging attacks, said industrial areas of Moji and Shimonoseki were hit.

In congress, Rep. Starnes (D-Ala.) told his colleagues he had information there was "great destruction" in Tokyo. There was no confirmation of Starnes' report from the war department which did not disclose targets.

Moji is a city on Kyushu, southernmost of the main Japanese islands. Shimonoseki is on Honshu Island just across a strait from Kyushu. They are about 500 miles, airline, from Tokyo.

Usual Claims Made

An imperial Japanese communique estimated the number of raiding planes at 20 and made the usual claims that they were intercepted and "repulsed." It said several were shot down and Domei, Japanese news agency, said six were shot down.

The Japanese said both B-29 Super Fortresses and B-24 Liberators were among the American planes.

Here, the only official information available late tonight was that attacks were carried out by B-29's flying from bases in the China-India-Burma theater.

The war department disclosed at 1:39 p. m., Eastern War Time, that the long-secret flying giants had gone into action. The announcement said:

"B-29 Super Fortresses of the United States Army Air Forces 20th bomber command bombed Japan today."

To this was added some time later that the planes flew to the attack from the China-India-Burma theater.

Congress Vindicated
Then Rep. Starnes (D-Ala.) arose in the house to tell his colleagues.

CIVIL SERVICE
RAPS ZIEGLERHighway Chief Trying To Frustrate Rules, Says
Thomas J. Wilson

Lansing, June 15 (AP)—Thomas J. Wilson, state civil service director, said today he had stopped the salary of Fisher Layton of Flint, chief of the state highway department administrative section, because Layton's chief, Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, was attempting to frustrate civil service rules to keep Layton on the job.

Wilson said Layton placed 27th among persons taking a civil service examination for the job and that since last January the civil service department has been certifying candidates with higher standings for the position with no result.

"Fourteen names have been certified for this job and most of them have waived," Wilson said. "When so many people won't take a $5,100 a year job for which they have qualified themselves we decided it was time to do some searching around."

He said he had written Ziegler that the applicants who waived declared that Ziegler or his representatives had "coerced" them to waive to bring Layton within certifiable range, telling them that the work would be too difficult for them that even if they didn't waive they would not receive the appointment and that if necessary Ziegler would take the position out from under civil service to retain Layton.

Lethal Gas Chamber

Jefferson City, Mo., June 15 (Friday) (AP)—After seven reprieves, 73-year-old Allen Lambus was executed in Missouri's lethal gas chamber early today for the hay-hook slaying of a teen-age negro girl.

The aged but still husky negro walked steadily into the execution chamber soon after midnight after saying a quiet "goodbye" to the Catholic priest who attended him. In a few minutes he was dead.

Lambus gained 20 pounds in his last two months in death row. He died weighing well over 200 pounds.

YANK TROOPS
GET TOEHOLD
IN MARIANASAMPHIBIOUS FORCES
STORM ASHORE ON SAIPAN ISLAND

BY LEIF ERICKSON

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, June 16. (AP)—American troops which landed 1,500 miles southeast of Tokyo Wednesday on Saipan in the Marianas have secured beachheads, captured a headland, fought their way into a sugar mill town and crushed Japanese tank-paced counter-attacks. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced tonight.

In a communique covering action through today, he reported that Aginan Point, a headland on the southwest corner of the 13-mile-long island, has been seized.

Battle-Wagons Help
The Yank invaders, supported by a huge carrier-plane force and guns of battleships which knocked out enemy coastal guns and anti-aircraft batteries, have fought their way two miles north into the sugar mill town of Charan Kanoa.

"In general, fighting is heavy but good progress is being made against well-organized defenses," Admiral Nimitz said in the second communique issued today on the operation.

The Japanese attempted several counter-attacks with tanks against the assault troops advancing from the beachheads but "these attacks" have been broken up by our troops with the support of shelling warships and bombing planes.

The announced capture of Aginan Point and the fighting at Charan Kanoa indicates the spearhead of the amphibious strike is aimed from the southwest over fairly flat cane-field terrain.

The reports also indicate that the troops, transports and supporting warships have sprung their operation in behind the 500-mile-long chain of Marianas.

Guam Outflanked
The American forces were described by their commander, Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, as the most experienced amphibious war fleet in the world. He told war correspondents prior to the landing that this thrust into Japan's inner defense lines was designed to destroy Saipan as an enemy base and convert it to Allied use. William Worden, Associated Press.

CITY OFFICIALS TO MEET HERE

U. P. Municipal League
Conference Scheduled
For Escanaba

Municipal officials from communities of the Upper Peninsula will gather in Escanaba June 30 and July 1 for the annual Municipal League Conference, and will be welcomed by Escanaba Mayor Sam R. Wickman at a luncheon program the opening day.

The Escanaba city council discussed the conference at its session last night, and the councilmen indicated that they would make a special effort to attend as many of the sessions as possible. In connection with their attendance at the conference, officials of the village of Kingsford will confer with Escanaba councilman on Escanaba's civil service program, which the Kingsford council is studying.

City Manager George Bean told the Escanaba council last night that several subjects of importance to municipalities will be discussed at the conference. These subjects will include the state's postwar projects planning program; proposed sales tax amendments and other tax problems.

Other business before the council last night included consideration of a group insurance plan for the benefit of city employees; authorization of an agreement with the state highway department for maintenance of traffic lights at Ludington and 23rd street; and authorization for the repainting of city signs along highways at entrances to the city.

There was discussion but no action was taken by the council on the appointment of a member to the civil service commission to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of Charles Gessner.

ated Press war correspondent with the expeditionary forces, reported the press conference.

In invading Saipan, Turner's forces vaulted far beyond Truk, major enemy base in the central Caroline Islands. When a firm hold is established on Saipan, it will place American forces 675 miles to the rear (west) of Truk, Guam, southernmost of the Marianas, also would be outflanked.

Storming enemy beaches is nothing new for Turner's forces. They have seen such action before many times. They will, however, be up against mobile enemy artillery for the first time, and against rough, formidable terrain. A larger land area also will be involved, compared with the small atolls of previous invasions.

Planes dropping rockets with their bombs paced the assault forces to the beaches. Showers of rockets were directed against enemy guns and defenses by fast firing LCIS (infantry landing craft) and by other gunboats.

Operation Spectacular

The operation was believed to be the most spectacular of the Pacific war, due to the major use of rocket firing planes and ships. These new weapons have been used previously in the Pacific only on a minor scale.

Saipan is the second largest island in the 700-mile long Marianas chain. Westward lies a clear ocean sweep to the Philippines, Formosa and the China coast.

Saipan is 13 miles long by five miles wide. Unlike the narrow ribbon-like atoll islands of the Marshalls and Gilberts, Saipan's area of 71 square miles contains flat plateau land on which airfields large enough for sizeable air operations can be built.

The Japanese have been developing the island as a major air base and secondary naval point since a League of Nations mandate in 1920 gave Japan control of all the Marianas except Guam.

Before the war, Saipan's population included about 20,000 Japanese, most of them imported to work in the sugar cane fields. There were also 20,000 Chamorro natives and about 800 blacks from the Carolines.

leagues that the target of the raid was Tokyo proper. A good source informed him, he said, that a large number of American planes were causing "great destruction" in Tokyo.

It was the second American bombing of Japan, but the first announcement of action by the B-29's.

House and senate sessions were halted for announcement of the news. Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) told his colleagues he was "sure the heart-felt thanks of congress and the country go out" to those who made the attack possible. Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said the news vindicated the wisdom of congress in furnishing funds for the giant new bombers.

This opened a new phase in the war—the phase in which fleets of the world's most formidable planes will strike at the enemy anywhere on earth at the command of one man—General Henry H. Arnold.

May Hasten Peace
By hitting the Japanese war industries again and again, and again, the great planes may change the whole complexion of the Pacific conflict and hasten the day of Japan's utter defeat.

Few details of this first mission by the new air giants—twice as heavy and one third larger than the Flying Fortress—were disclosed in a war department announcement. A communique said only: "B-29 Super Fortresses of the United States Army Air Force 20th bomber command bombed Japan today."

A short time later, however, the war department disclosed that planes participating in the attack came from the India-China-Burma theater. Unquestionably, if the high command so decides, the attack can be repeated with regularity.

By contrast, the Doolittle raid of April 18, 1942, was a one-shot affair. The Doolittle raiders, flying twin-engine medium bombers, took off from a carrier and were forced to crash land in China. Some fell into the hands of the Japanese who announced they had executed eight of them.

Secret Data Revealed
Summing up in understatement the meaning of this new attack, General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, said: "This employment of the B-29 makes possible the softening up attack on Japan very much earlier than would be possible with aircraft hitherto known to combat."

With today's announcement the war department disclosed some hitherto secret information about the B-29's and revealed the organization of the 20th air force as a roving, globe circling command headed by General Arnold.

It compared the 20th air force to a naval task force, likening it to "an aerial battle fleet, able to participate in combined operations, or to be assigned to strike wherever the need is greatest."

In comment on today's news, Arnold said:

"This Super Fortress is not going to win the war by itself, nor has anyone thought it will do so. It will, however, like its predecessors, the B-17 and B-24, strike at the sources of enemy strength, and prepare the way for ultimate decision by our well-established team of land, sea and air forces."

Arnold's command of the 20th air force is separate from his post as chief of the air forces. As chief of staff of the 20th air force he has Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., of Fort Monroe, Va.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth D. Wolfe of Riverside, Calif., is commander of the 20th bomber command which is the unit of the 20th air force making the attack on Japan. Col. C. A. Horn of Liberty, N. Y., is chief of staff and Brig. Gen. John E. Upton of Tawas, City, Mich., is operations officer of the 20th bomber command.

Airport Planning Funds Allocated; $1,500 To Escanaba

Menominee, Mich., June 15 (AP)

—The Michigan State Board of Aeronautics today allocated funds for the planning of airport construction, Thomas E. Walsh, chairman, announced.

Allocations for planning funds, which were made at the request of Gov. Harry F. Kelly at the last legislative session, were (by counties): Gogebic, $1,862; Houghton, $2,013; Keweenaw, $1,000; Lake, $1,270; Mackinac, $1,810; Marquette, $2,500; Menominee, $1,500; Ontonagon, $2,000 and Schoolcraft, $1,300.

Planning funds allocated for following cities and villages: Norway, $800; Iron Mountain, $1,600; Detour, $1,000; Escanaba, $1,500; Garden, $300; L'Anse, $1,000; Baraga, $400; Munising $650; Chatham, $235 and Grand Marais, $325.

Airport construction funds, to be matched by recipient, the state's share to be paid out of aviation gas tax receipts, also were allocated for following southern Michigan cities: Detroit City airport, $25,000; Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, $15,000; Holland, $15,000; South Haven, $5,000; Sturgis, $5,000; Charlevoix, $5,000; Gaylord, $5,000; Marley township (Roscommon county), $2,500; Sparta, $2,500; Newago, $2,500; Mecosta, $1,000 and Kent county airport, $500.

Similar allocation was made to Marquette county of $7,500 for airport construction purposes.

Newton Takes Over In Pacific; Halsey To Be Reassigned

Allied Headquarters in The South Pacific, June 15 (AP)—Clearing the way for a new assignment, Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., today turned the command of South Pacific Allied forces over to Vice Adm. John Newton, 62, former deputy commander.

"You have met, measured and moved down the best the enemy had on land and sea and air," Halsey said in a parting message to his forces.

"Now carry on the smashing South Pacific traditions under your new commander, and may we join up again farther along the road to Tokyo."

Halsey led Allied sea, land and air forces from Guadalcanal to a juncture with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific forces. Newton is a former deputy chief of naval operations, a veteran of China and the First World War. He helped plan and execute grand naval strategy in both the Pacific and Atlantic in this war.

Lakes and rivers are more numerous in Finland than in any other European country.

Local Advances Scored
Right around the irregular front, starting on the northwest, this was the battle situation as the invasion went into its eleventh day:

Quineville: American right flank on the sea, scene of a sea-saw action in which the Americans took the town and scored local gains across the Quineville-Montebourg road.

Montebourg: Still in German hands but increasingly outflanked on both sides by the American Fourth Division which took Quineville and put the Montebourg-Valognes highway under heavy artillery fire.

Port L'Abee: Airborne Americans, 4½ miles northeast of St. Saviour-Le-Comte, under rising enemy pressure but holding firm.

Carentan: American thrust westward now well across deeply-flooded ground into firm land west of village of Baupre; Germans acknowledge Americans reached Pretot, three miles beyond Baupre and barely six miles from La Haye du Puits; German 17th motorized infantry division with some tanks crushed back in vain counterattack.

Lison: Allied 21st army group headquarters disclosed American advanced westward in Vire and Elle river areas nearly halfway across base of the Cherbourg peninsula. Particulars withheld. Lison, 11 miles inland, was taken last week.

Caumont: In Allied hands, with operations still in patrol stage but prospects of early expansion. Violent German counterattacks repulsed between Caumont and Tilly-sur-Seuilles.

Villers - Bocage: Increasing pressure from both sides, with town in German hands and Allies facing it on high ground quarter-mile distant across Seulles river.

Tilly-Caen-Troarn zone: Heavy tank fighting, with Germans stopped in their tracks around Tilly and losing slightly between Ross Munro, Canadian press correspondent, said "this campaign is sweeping to its first great climax, and big battles which would bring large armored formations into combat over the Norman farmlands might be approaching rapidly."

DOG ORDINANCE EFFECTIVE SOON

Police Begin Enforcing New Law Monday In Escanaba

Escanaba Police Chief Michael Ethenhofer yesterday said that enforcement of the city's new dog ordinance would start Monday, and that several dog owners who have ignored police warnings to keep their dogs tied will be cited into court under the new law unless they comply.

Briefly the ordinance provides that:

Every dog four months old or older must be licensed.

Owners of dogs must not permit the animals "to stray beyond his premises unless under reasonable control of some person or custodian, except when engaged in lawful hunting accompanied by its owner or custodian, from the first day of May to the 31st day of August in each year". All unlicensed dogs are to be impounded by the police and held for 48 hours, and after that time, unless the owner redeems the dog by paying $1.50, the dog is to be destroyed.

Licensed dogs must be prevented by their owners from destroying property or habitually trespassing "in a damaging way" upon the property of others; from attacking or biting persons, or showing viciousness or molesting passersby, or running at large. For violations of the above the owner must show cause in justice court why the dog should not be destroyed.

Where the court orders the dog destroyed or confined, and the owner fails to do so, he may be sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or jailed for 10 days, or both.

MESS "TOOLS" FROM SCRAP

Francis Peterson Dies In Hospital

Francis Lloyd Peterson, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peterson, died Thursday morning at 6:30 o'clock in St. Luke's Hospital in Marquette after an illness of three weeks. He was born April 9, 1927 in Munising. He is survived by his parents, 113 Pine St.; three sisters, Mrs. Ralph Pein, Niles, Mich., Mary Alice and Dorothy of this city; three brothers, Carl and Howard of Munising and Major Leonard Peterson, overseas.

The body is in the Beaulieu and Madison funeral home, Onota St. where it will remain until the time of the funeral. Funeral services will be held Monday June 19 at 9:00 a. m. in the Sacred Heart church, Rev. Fr. O. J. LaMothe officiating. Interment will be made in Maple Grove cemetery.

Francis was a member of the Holy Name Society, Sacred Heart church, and attended the Sacred Heart school.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. Sunday evening.

OPENING NETS $249

Receipts at the Munising cafe opening Monday, all of which were donated at the Alger county American Red Cross chapter, totaled $249.90, it was announced today by Earl Wines, chairman of the chapter. R. W. Jackson, chairman of the Red Cross war fund drive, said the gift would bring the county's total to $5,255.14. The quota assigned was $5,400.

Wines and Jackson expressed their satisfaction over the success of the opening day at the cafe, and their thanks and appreciation to Nick and Chris Bouth, owners, who turned over the establishment to the organization and contributed the entire days receipts. Thanks also are expressed to the women who donated their services as waitresses, hostesses and cashiers.

CONFESSES ROBBERIES — William Smith, age 47, apprehended in St. Ignace by State Police, confessed to a series of breaking and enterings which he had done in Alger, Schoolcraft, and Chippewa counties. A confession was obtained by Trooper Chenoweth, that Smith had broken into Beckers and Shirey's Stations on April 28. He also stole a car here which he had used in "scouting" around for likely places to enter. State Police in investigating his record, found that Smith had spent all but eight years of his life in jail since he was 17 years old. He will be arraigned in Sault Ste. Marie.

GOODS SURVEY REPORT ISSUED

Scarcity Of Mowers And Radio Tubes Very Acute Now

Green Bay, Wis., June 14—The recent consumer goods survey of miscellaneous household items, based on responses by about 4500 nationally representative families, shows immediate merchandise needs and future buying desires which will serve as a guide in planning production increases as facilities become available. WPB's Office of Civilian Requirements has advised the district War Production Board office here.

Items not previously surveyed, and shown to be in extremely short supply, include wash boilers, carpet sweepers, tea kettles and lawn mowers. Alarm clocks and garbage cans stand high among continuing shortages.

W. Y. Elliott, War Production Vice-Chairman for Civilian Requirements, said: "It must be fully realized that large production increases cannot be expected at this time. Any new civilian programs instituted will be cleared only after careful scrutiny of their impact on military programs. The invasion has re-emphasized that nothing can be permitted to jeopardize the production of adequate supplies for the men on the battle front. However, when and as more civilian production can be absorbed by factories now doing war work, every effort will be made to reduce shortages shown by the recent survey. It may be possible to put some simple items into production almost at once. These survey results will figure importantly in our Civilian Requirements programs for the months just ahead."

Survey In April

The survey, covering buying experience during the first three and one-half months of this year, was made during April by enumerators from the Bureau of Census.

Fifty-six household articles are shown in proportion to demand. Percentage of satisfied demand varies from 98 per cent. in the case of sewing thread, to five per cent. in the case of wash boilers and lawn mowers. Among the surveyed goods in sufficient supply to meet more than fifty per cent of demand are: thermos bottles, moth-proof bags and moth repellants, bobbie pins, flashlight batteries, paper towels and napkins, infants' play pens and cribs, bedsteads and dinette sets.

Some of the articles so short as to meet about one third of demand or less are: radio tubes, window screening, electric heating pads, can openers and alarm clocks, carpet sweepers, extension cords, frying pans and double boilers, tea kettles, wash tubs, step-on kitchen garbage cans.

Inconvenience and hardship from inability to buy are highest in the case of unsatisfied demand for heating pads, alarm clocks, window screening, wash boilers, and garbage cans. The lawn mower shortage appears to have caused a good deal of inconvenience.

Tableware In Demand

By number of units, tableware, (knives, forks, and spoons) has been the household article in most active demand since January, followed by radio tubes, alarm clocks and window screening. Moth repellents, extension cords and wash tubs, pails and buckets have also been widely sought. Tableware also leads in number of units bought. Other items, not usually bought in multiple units, and showing heavy sales are: thermos bottles, lunch boxes, extension cords, frying pans and double boilers, wash tubs, pails and buckets.

When compared with the first consumer goods survey of last November some of the re-surveyed household items showing moderate improvement in supply are children's cribs, scissors, hair pins, iron cords, bobbie pins and

MANY ATTEND AIRPORT MEET

Postwar Airport Program For U. P. Discussed At Menominee

More than 100 persons, representatives of cities and counties of the Upper Peninsula, attended the U. P. airport conference which ended yesterday in Menominee. The conference was called by the state board of aeronautics to discuss postwar airport development plans.

The city of Escanaba was represented at the conference by Fred Sosaiba, Escanaba airport manager, who flew to Menominee Wednesday; and H. D. Brackett, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce secretary. J. T. Sharpsteen, Delta county road commission engineer, represented the county, and William L. Marble represented Gladstone.

Purpose of the conference was to encourage communities of the Upper Peninsula to consider and plan for airport development as postwar projects. It was announced that the state will pay all reasonable costs for planning projects approved by the state board of aeronautics.

The state board of aeronautics is headed by Thomas E. Walsh of Grand Rapids. Other members of the board attending the conference were Bruce E. Anderson, Lansing; D. E. Crocker, Ontonagon; State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler; and State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander.

Yesterday's session was a continuation of meetings with representatives from various Upper Peninsula communities.

The U. P. Development Bureau, Menominee city and county and the Menominee Chamber of Commerce were hosts to the conference.

Lure Book Issued

FIRST copies of the 1944 Lure Book are now being distributed by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau to prospective vacationists who have been attracted by the Hiawathaland advertisements in metropolitan newspapers.

Officials of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau are fully aware that they cannot expect the tourist traffic to be anywhere approaching the prewar volume. They are continuing their promotional efforts, however, with a view toward keeping the Upper Peninsula always fresh in the minds of the public. Then, when travel restrictions are relaxed, they will not have forgotten the outstanding recreational opportunities offered in this region.

At the same time, the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau is serving the region well with other wartime activities. Of special importance is the assistance it is giving to agriculture through the potato and dairying programs of the organization. The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, after all, is more than a tourist promotion organization, but gives its attention to all other economic phases of the counties north of the Straits.

Still More Confusing

THE people of France are reported by Don Whitehead, Associated Press war correspondent, to have accorded General de Gaulle an enthusiastic ovation when he returned to his homeland for a short visit this week. But taking some of the glamor from the picture is another dispatch from Washington, stating that high American officials were complaining that the Fighting French leader refused to allow French army officers to join the invasion forces. To this, de Gaulle headquarters reply that there never was any agreement calling for the participation by French officers.

It would be interesting to know if reasons other than those stated are behind the persistent Anglo-American refusal to recognize General de Gaulle, except as head of the French troops now fighting with the Allies. Is it pique at his triumph over the Allied choice for head of the French government-in-exile? Have they another candidate in the offing? Are there unreported facts or suspicions that count against the general?

General de Gaulle has made his share of mistakes. But on the basis of evidence available to the public, he is the best man at hand. He labored in vain to prepare the French army for this war over the defeatist opposition of Pétain. He has promised not to perpetuate himself or his government in power once France is liberated.

And the French people seem to want him. It is significant that there was no popular protest from North Africa or metropolitan France when General Giraud faded out of the picture. From what can be learned from underground newspapers and from the few persons coming out of France, General de Gaulle's popularity there is growing.

Opposed by America and Britain, and denied the usual machinery of a political buildup, he would seem to have achieved his present stature through his past reputation and the French peoples' present faith in his ability and intentions.

Surely the French patriots deserve consideration. They have endured with little complaint the tragic necessity of civilian deaths in the Allied air war against their conquerors. They have hidden, clothed and fed our flyers, and helped them to escape. They have suffered brutal reprisals.

These are the people who apparently want General de Gaulle to represent them until they can choose their own leaders. They cannot be blamed if they have begun to question why the Allies so stubbornly oppose that wish.

Prevent Forest Fires

FOREST fire control was the chief topic of discussion at the first Upper Peninsula training school for conservation officers, fire wardens and townsmen held this week at J. W. Wells state park at Cedar River.

Demonstrations in the use of radio and other forest fire fighting equipment were held, all of which should make the crews better able to cope with fire emergencies this coming season. However, emphasis is being placed on prevention, which is all the more important in wartime when there is a shortage of manpower for fire fighting crews.

In recent years, there has been a noticeable absence of large forest fires in this region, a situation which may be credited to the preventive program. The public has been convinced of the need for being careful with cigarettes and campfires, and logging operators are also cooperating by making proper disposal of slash. By keeping the fires out of the woodlands, Nature has been given an opportunity to restore to the Upper Peninsula to some of its original scenic beauties.

Cherbourg Is Prize

ALLIED strategy in the fighting on the Normandy coast is directed toward the capture of Cherbourg, which would give the Allies possession of a spacious French port that would greatly facilitate their shipping in of supplies.

Cherbourg's docking facilities are so ample that even the French liner Normandie has on occasion deserted its home port of LeHavre and docked there. The port lies in the center of the blunt end of the Normandy peninsula, which thrusts its 25-mile-wide bulk abruptly into the English channel to within about 82 miles of the British naval base at Portsmouth.

Development of Cherbourg as an important naval station was begun by Napoleon. Its extensive fortifications and improvements, completed a little less than a hundred years ago, cost tens of millions of dollars.

The port of the military area has three main ship basins carved out of solid rock. In places they are more than 50 feet deep. The outer or largest basin can accommodate the biggest warships at any tide. Shipyards, drydocks, arsenals, supply sheds, repair shops and other equipment of a great naval station were available there. The commercial port with two basins is capable of handling the largest passenger and trading vessels.

The role of invasion target is not new to Cherbourg. In the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries it was an objective of British fighting men from across the Channel and in the middle of the 1700's it was temporarily occupied by British forces who remained until a ransom was paid. Meanwhile, the visitors dismantled the town, and destroyed its fortifications.

More Meat Rationing

MANY point-free cuts of meat are likely to go back under rationing soon, according to a statement made by an OPA spokesman in Washington.

Points were taken off pork and other items a few weeks ago in an effort to relieve the glut at the livestock markets. The plan worked, and more quickly than expected, for Escanaba housewives reported difficulties this week in getting pork chops and some other meat items.

The experience points to the value of point rationing for controlling the supply of food products. It was the system that operated most effectively in Britain, and there is proof enough now that it is needed in this country.

ANOTHER MIRACLE (Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Scientific miracles have become commonplace in this war, but there is one more which is of unusual interest to the American people at this time. It is the army's new insect powder known as DDT, which was used with such effectiveness when typhus cases increased at the time of the Allied invasion of Italy.

Many people have been keeping fingers crossed lest some epidemic rise in the countries devastated by war and sweep round the world. Now that Allied troops are in Europe among peoples who for four years have been on starvation rations and living in cities shattered by aerial bombs, our concern increases.

However, DDT along with sulfa and other wonder-working drugs, bolsters the hope that the traditional epidemic of war will be avoided this time. This simple powder is harmless to humans but so deadly to insects which carry disease that within a few weeks last winter typhus was virtually eradicated from the occupied Italian areas.

Its discovery dates back to 1874 when Othmar Zeidler of Strasbourg described it in six lines in the proceedings of the German Chemical Society. It was not until recently that its possibilities were comprehended. Scientists say it opens up an entire new era in the control of agricultural and household insect pests. Momentarily it is an important factor in protection of the health of our soldiers in combat.

War-painted Indians were among the first paratroops to land in France, dropping in silently. Neither do they give a whoop for the Germans.

If the apple crop is up to average this year there may not be enough jugs to hold it.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

As the war on four European fronts increases in intensity, the shortwave war on the propaganda front also goes into high gear. The interesting fact about this war of the wave lengths is that we hear only one side of it—the German side. The chief impact of it comes blaring over our Atlantic wall for hours every night.

After listening to this stuff with some care since the invasion began, I find several main themes in the Goebbels attack.

The first is the German effort to fan anti-Russian sentiment in this country. In perfect English and with a carefully calculated amount of incidental entertainment, the various broadcasters tell Americans, on one breath, of the terrible losses they are sustaining on the French front and, in the next that Stalin is the master-mind behind the whole war. Roosevelt and Churchill are portrayed as Russian's puppets. The words "Bolsheviks" and "Communists" are in nearly every sentence of the news commentary. Tito's army is called "merely Communist bandits." A "red Europe" is the objective of the Allies. The war is a "red war."

—AROUSES RACE PREJUDICE— Second, there is a lot of stuff in the broadcasts intended to fan racial and religious prejudice. This is a "Jewish war," negroes are being given the toughest jobs in our military services, and the like.

The eternal German pundit always appears in the course of the evening. He tells us that many historic Anglo-American statements of principle are just high-sounding bunches of words, intended to cover a special interest. The Magna Carta, for instance, was a declaration of the barons, for the barons and by the barons. All recent declarations of Allied unity, they insist, are of the same sort. Rapidly switching into the Communist line, they condemn only by name, they tell us that Allied declarations are by, of and for the capitalists.

The invasion, they say, is another Churchill idea. They solemnly recall the story of Gallipoli which, they gleefully point out, was Churchill's great failure. This invasion, they prophesy, will end the same way.

—HIT AT WEAK SPOTS—

Practiced as the Germans are in the art of propaganda, we must not attribute infallible skill to them. The things they are telling us, are in part, cunningly contrived efforts to reach our weak spots. But, in larger part, they are things they have learned to believe because they have told them so often to their own people.

What the Germans seem most eager to cover up is the plain truth that vast numbers of Americans, are, in fact, on the soil of France and that more are still pouring in daily. Perhaps, since our propaganda artists are unskilled in the practice of lying, this fact is the best theme on which we can play on the short waves to the Continent. All the known facts of 1918 tell us that German home-front morale never recovered from the realization, after the break-through at St. Mihiel, that Americans were pouring into a weary continent ceaselessly and in overpowering numbers. The fourteen points helped, of course, but there were two million points that spoke with even more authority. Each point, represented a fresh, vigorous and brave American. It once broke the spirit of Germany, and it will break the spirit of Germany again.

Tell them that, OWL, over and over!

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS (Sault Ste. Marie News)

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau is carrying out a hay fever prevention publicity campaign which should have good results throughout the district, all parts of which are in Michigan's dustless and pollen-free belt where hay fever takes an annual licking.

Without a doubt it will be hard to get gasoline for vacation trips this year. If there is any justification for leniency, it is in the case of those who suffer tortures each summer with this distressing complaint. Right here is the perfect haven for these people. Their sufferings are no laughing matter, and if a driver can fill his car with hay fever patients, he should logically be allowed enough gas for a round trip to the Lake Superior country.

The Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce reports that about the only inquiries received so far this season are concerned with relief from hay fever. This is always a desirable class of patronage. There is little prospect that this will be a busy tourist season, in fact we have no right to expect anything of the kind or to work to that end, with a terrible war crisis confronting the country.

We can, however, entertain with a clear conscience all the hay fever patients who may come this way. We welcome more of them, and assure all such that we have here as fine a hay fever haven as the world affords.

form "irregardless" is the result of false association with such words as irrespective, irresponsible, irreparable, irreproachable, etc., none of which are double negatives.

Q. Can you straighten us out on this sentence: "He is the man whom I think placed the order?"

A. One may see a man, strike a man, hear a man; but it is impossible to "think" a man. Rearranging the sentence will show the proper usage: I think he is the man who placed the order.

My Who-Whom Pamphlet provides a simple, nontechnical key that makes the usage instantly clear. For a free copy, send a stamped (3c), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper.

For instance perch are taken by the millions each summer from the bay, both Little and Big Bay de Noc. Over at Garden perch fishing has become an institution. Nahma and certain places south of Escanaba are considered good perch fishing sites.

That Mess Is Finally Coming to a Boil

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

WOODS AND WATERS.—These June days are the kind that lure the mind (if not the body) out into the open air. Family picnics are the order of the season for the family man, while the man who thinks more of his personal pleasure goes fishing sans family.

Unfortunately as the weather has been so far this month, trout and dory fishermen don't seem to mind in the slightest if the rain gets them wetter than a fish's belly. It is the same with the boys in Escanaba, so recently released from school, who spend hours at the old Merchant's Dock hauling up perch. It must be admitted they are not large perch — but they make a good showing on a stringer when the boy walks down Ludington street.

Again referring to the weather: When those Great Lakes cruise ships dock at Escanaba why does it have to rain? Escanaba weather can be better than most—or it can be worse than most when it gets headstrong.

But while the cruise ships guests wandered up Ludington street they found a bit of Delta county outdoors brought to them—in the windows of the Delta Hardware. Deer (stuffed, of course) stood against a woods background, while a trout fisherman angled for real, live trout in a little pool. It was an impressive example of what this North Country has to offer the hunter and fisherman.

JUST A POLE.—Incidentally, you don't have to have fancy equipment to catch fish—although this is no argument against use of a good pole, reel and line. Fishermen know that the well-equipped angler is the one who gets the fish, all those jokes about the barefoot boy with the alder pole to the contrary.

A boy who can prove this point is James Douglas, 14, of Bark River, who caught a 17-inch, two-pound brook trout in the river of the fish in the Daily Press fishing contest. The reporter taking the information asked what kind of a rod he had used.

"Oh, just a rod," said James. "What kind of a reel?"

"Oh, just a reel."

"Well, what kind of a line did you have?"

Jim's blue eyes sparkled.

"Oh boy, it was a good one! It had to be!"

For the benefit of fishermen, it should be added that Jim used angle worms for bait.

TROUT TROUBLE.—Speaking of a good line for trout, it should also be said that trout need just the right water conditions to survive. This was the case with the German brown trout which were placed in a tank as part of a window display at the Delta Hardware.

The first group of fish placed in the tank died one by one and no one could quite understand what the trouble was.

Consultation with city water department officials brought information which is believed to have cleared up the mysterious deaths.

The city's water supply comes from deep wells—from 500 to 700 feet underground—and lacks free oxygen, without which fish are unable to survive. Besides this, the city is experimenting with certain chemical treatments designed to halt staining action. Apparently successful, the amount of the chemicals required is being reduced to point where it will be almost non-existent.

But the trout died, and to overcome the difficulty a charcoal filter was designed to eliminate the chemicals, and the water was squirted with force into the tank to provide oxygen. The conservation department supplied more trout and they were still living Wednesday.

Just in case you may think the city water is the only kind that will kill brook trout, you should know that brook trout won't survive in most inland lakes and streams of Delta county. The water temperature is too high in summer. Nor do you find good trout fishing in the bay at Escanaba.

TO THE FUTURE.—Despite the absence of brook trout fishing in all except favored streams of the county, don't think there isn't plenty of fishing opportunities. Besides the trout streams (upper Escanaba, Whitefish and others) there is good fishing for other species.

For instance perch are taken by the millions each summer from the bay, both Little and Big Bay de Noc. Over at Garden perch fishing has become an institution. Nahma and certain places south of Escanaba are considered good perch fishing sites.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Col. LeGrande A. Dillard, MacArthur's chief public relations officer, who was with the General in Bataan, Corregidor and Australia, has arrived in New York.

WHEN BOB HOPE first arrived in London, he asked some of the correspondents what was the best thing to do in case of an air-raid. "We duck under a table," Hope was advised. . . . "But if I duck under a table," said Hope, "how will I ever see any of the fireworks?" . . . "That's simple," John Steinbeck told him, "we always take the table up to the roof."

SEC. MORGENTHAU directed a plea to the heads of large companies suggesting that the employees subscribe $100 cash to the purchase of War Bonds, instead of subscribing $75 for a $100 bonds. Franklin D'Olier, head of Prudential, wired the Secretary that his employees had approved. "Good," Morgenthau wired. "Please notify the State Director of the War Bond drive."

And D'Olier wired back: "Don't leave to, I'm State Director." . . . Wendell Wilkie's columns, which are being offered free to all newspapers, will set the sights high in his recommendations concerning the Republican platform. The columns will discuss Poll Taxes and Anti-Lynching laws. . . . Elliot Paul, author of "The Last Time I Saw Paris," is trying to arrange his return there as quickly as possible. He wants to be a correspondent.

ALTHOUGH Lt. Gen. Holcomb, retired head of the Marine Corps, now is a diplomat, he'll get a Marine transport plane, manned by Marines, for his use. . . . Frank Nugent, the ex-film critic who became a screenwriter, found the name "Gizella Zwergely-Turff" in a California directory. He called the number listed, and asked: "May I speak to Gizella Zwergely-Turff?" When the lady said: "This is Gizella Zwergely-Turff," Nugent said: "Remember me? I used to school with you in Kansas City." The lady insisted: "I never lived in Kansas City." Nugent signed off. "Oh, I beg your pardon. It must be another Gizella Zwergely-Turff."

BROADWAY ROSE now has a Navy bomber named in her honor. It's piloted by Fritz Plummer of Sioux City, and Ken Dimin of Brooklyn. "We landed in Africa," writes Eugene Dimin, "on a strange airfield. We were dirty, hungry and missed chow. There was no bath, either. We then decided that the only appropriate name for a plane which hauled around such a crowd as ours was the name of the sloppy New York bazaar. That's how our trim, fast Navy bomber came to be christened 'Broadway Rose'." . . . Jim Farley, off to Mexico, probably will confer with Garner in Texas. . . . Last week Josef Hofmann, the pianist, helped a crab on 58th St. put him into a cab, found his address, took him home to the Bronx—a $4 ride—carried him upstairs, and was berated by the drunk's irate wife, who also advised her stiff husband that he shouldn't keep such company.

UNDERSECRETARY of War Patterson is posing for a Washington artist. "I notice that the trousers you're wearing haven't a crease," the artist told Patterson. "Would you mind if I show you wearing trousers which aren't baggy?" It's easy for me to put a crease in them." . . . "Make it realistic, and show the trousers baggy," said Patterson. "As a matter of fact, I've been so busy that I never had these trousers pressed." . . . "How long have you been wearing them?" asked the artist. . . . Patterson confessed: "Two years."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Adlai Stevenson, civilian assistant to the late Secretary of the Navy Knox, is leaving the Navy to try to buy Knox's newspaper, the Chicago Daily News. Stevenson, most up-and-coming young executive in the Navy, went to Italy last fall, recommended immediate ousting of the King and Badoglio, putting in a democratic regime. Now, six months late, his ideas are carried out. Grandson of Vice President Adlai Stevenson of the second Grover Cleveland Administration, Adlai was FDR's choice to be the new Undersecretary of the Navy, but Forrestal said no.

UNION JACK—British limies deserve a good share of the credit for the blasting of Hitler's Atlantic Wall before the Allies waded ashore. The British Navy has the chief command in Channel waters, steamed in close and demolished Nazi pillboxes, forts and everything else within twelve miles of shore. It was the job which Navy guns should have done on the bloody island of Tarawa. We learned our lesson there—namely, that air bombing can't do everything. U. S. warships also did a good job along the Channel, except that Admiral Alan Kirk, either because he got his signals mixed or because the weather was bad, failed to blast one Nazi beach. That was where U. S. troops got caught in a murderous cross-fire and were slaughtered.

HOLLYWOOD AMBASSADOR—Eric Johnston, who has been telling it to the Soviets as U. S. Chamber of Commerce Ambassador, has a new job virtually cinched when he comes home: —Hollywood's ambassador to Washington. The movie industry long has wanted an outstanding figure to represent it in the capital, and the moguls have decided on Johnston, except for Warner Brothers. They don't seem so sure that forthright Eric is the man.

GOOD NEWS—The Pacific fighting is ahead of schedule. That is why lights have been burning late in the FEA's Office of Economic Warfare recently. The war chiefs suddenly decided they needed certain information regarding the location of buildings inside Japan and called on Economic Warfare to produce it in a hurry. This means that attacks on Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama and Kobe probably will come sooner than expected. Also it probably means that the win-quick school of strategists in the Army and Navy have won out. They have favored by-passing a lot of Pacific islands, also the jungles of Burma, instead of wasting men and munitions in a seven-year war.

BARUCH SIMMERS—Bernie Baruch, the charming sage of post-war conversion, talked about going on the radio last week to answer critics who said his post-war plans had left out labor. But big news broke across the Channel, and Bernie decided there was no use competing with the invasion. Bernie is super-sensitive about any criticism of his post-war plans and may explode soon. Among his friendly critics, however, is his recent guest at Hobcaw Barony, S. C. That friendly critic, now moved back to the White House, leans toward Senator Kilgore's bill on post-war conversion as providing more than a crate of apples for the veterans.

UNHAPPY CHANDLER—Senator "Happy" Chandler, Kentucky's gift to outdoor swimming-pools, has been growing in his beard lately. . . . "Alben Barkley," moans Happy, "is the weakest floor leader in years. . . . The trouble is that we don't have more leaders in the Senate like me. . . . Personally, I don't care whether Roosevelt wins or not. . . . If Mark Ethridge (Louisville Courier-Journal Publisher) should be Democratic keynoter, I'd walk out. . . . The unhappy Senator recently asked Smith Hays, county attorney for Clark County, to start a Chandler-for-Vice-President move. Replied Hays: "It'll be all I can do to keep 'em from passing a resolution denouncing you."

REPUBLICAN GOSSIP—GOP keynoter Warren hasn't consulted anyone around Capitol Hill about his coming forensic offering at Chicago. Governor Stassen, keynoter in 1940, made a hit by coming to Washington and talking things over, so Republican Senators are a bit peeved at Warren. . . . It was significant that the Republican Congressmen voted en masse to cut the UNRRA European relief appropriation only after consulting Dewey's New York State mogul, Russel Sprague. Sprague came to Washington, huddled with the GOPers. Then they voted to cut the UNRRA fund. . . . Several GOP Vice Presidential boomlets are testing the wind: —Bill Hutcheson, head of the AFL carpenters' union, who hates FDR and teams with John L. Lewis; U. S. Chamber of Commerce chief Eric Johnston; Illinois Congressman Everett Dirksen. The last-named has the most strength. . . . Buffalo's Republican Representative Munk accuses Dewey's right bower, Ed Jaekle, of being a political dictator. Because Munk voted for Roosevelt's soldier-veter bill, Jaekle won't let him run for re-election.

DEMOCRATIC NOTES—Irish Democratic boss Bob Hannegan is quoted as saying: "I've been in twenty-five States and not seen a single person in favor of Wallace." Hannegan says he's for an organization Democrat as Vice President, not a former Republican, and that he thinks Wallace is through. . . . This should please the boys in Texas. . . . The Staten Island Democratic defeat by a Republican for Congressman was a worse blow than those at the top want to admit. It indicates how close a Dewey-Roosevelt race might be in New York. . . . Those around the White House say FDR has gone cagey lately about running again.

It's lack of common sense that makes auto speeders discover their mistake by accident.

Janet Harriman
Is the Bride of Harold DuBois

Miss Janet Harriman, of 2657 North Fortieth street, Milwaukee, and Harold DuBois, of 1715 Forty-fifth street, Kenosha, Wis., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ovide DuBois, of Spalding, were united in marriage at a ceremony which took place Saturday morning, June 10, at ten o'clock at St. Francis Xavier church in Spalding.

The service was solemnized by Rev. Father F. A. Seifert. The attendants were Miss Dorothy Hoffman of Milwaukee, a class-mate of the bride, who was maid of honor, Mrs. Earl DuBois, of Spalding, who was bridesmaid, and Earl DuBois, brother of the bridegroom, who served as best man.

The bride wore a white street length dress with powder blue accessories and a corsage of white snapdragons and pink carnations. Miss Hoffman wore lime green with white accessories, and a corsage of tallman roses and yellow snapdragons, and Mrs. DuBois wore orchid with white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of tallman roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore powder blue with white accessories and red roses formed her corsage.

Wedding Dinner
A wedding dinner for twelve guests was served at the Sherman hotel in Escanaba, with pink, yellow and white snapdragons arranged with white tapers for the table decorations.

The couple will live in Kenosha at 5710 Twenty-second avenue. The bride attended Shorewood high school in Milwaukee and the bridegroom is a graduate of Powers-Spalding high school. Guests at the wedding included Mrs. Chester Loritz, of Marquette; Miss Dorothy Hoffman, of Milwaukee; and Pfc. and Mrs. Richard DuBois, of Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Today's Pattern

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-271: Bob B., aged 45, is an advertising representative. I was dining with him and two other advertising friends at luncheon.

"In this modern competitive age, business success often hinges on personalities and little things," Bob mused.

"My favorite meal, for instance, is breakfast. Over a man's type of breakfast, I can gather my wits and get set for a hard day's work."

"One morning I noticed a distinguished looking gentleman at a nearby table. He was there on subsequent days. I recognized him as the head of one of our large department stores."

"We grew friendly after a time, and finally dined together. Ultimately, he asked me what my business consisted of. I then told him I sold advertising."

Success Built on Friendship
He showed surprise that I hadn't come to him earlier for more advertising, but I told him our contact was a social or friendly one, so I didn't want to intrude business into our breakfast chat.

"My reply seemed to please him. Later I did contact him at his office and have had heavy patronage from him ever since."

"Logic and scientific sales arguments are essential to modern business success, but they may not get you an order unless you also perform the little favors for, or have the personal friendship of, the prospective client. Don't you think so?"

Modern Business Psychology

Yes, indeed, I feel exactly as Bob does, and have long taught my college students to cultivate their clients in friendly fashion or perform little extra services not technically required.

In a competitive society where you can buy equally good life insurance or gasoline, breakfast cereal or shoes from any one of a dozen companies, the final stimulus to positive action is often an item not even mentioned in the company's advertising.

The smile of one salesman versus the indifferent approach of the other, may throw your decision to the former company instead of to the latter, though the second may have spent twice as much on advertising.

A free souvenir to yourself or youngsters, may likewise do the trick. An unprotected railroad crossing or auto boulevard intervening between your home and one grocer, may cause you to send your children to the nearby store that doesn't necessitate the dangerous crossing.

Thus, a chain store manager may fail to produce the expected sales volume, when the fault is not within the store, but consists of the dangerous street crossing.

Consumer Surveys
Maybe the consumers by habit don't patronize one side of street as much as the other. This is very obvious in Chicago, for example, where the west side of Michigan Boulevard seems spontaneously to be preferred by the majority of pedestrians.

America has passed through an era where new inventions and clever advertising copy or high pressure salesmanship could quickly zoom a new company into the billion dollar class.

But competition is now so much keener, with price and quality almost matched, that the balance of power in a specific sale has now swung back to the personal charm or tact or courtesy of the sales clerk, or to other items such as the convenience in store location, usefulness of the packing carton or container, or even the color of the wrapper.

If you wish my bulletin "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclose a 3c stamped envelope, plus a dime.

VEAL

Selection and Preparation

Veal should be at least six weeks old for slaughter. Prime veal should be a faint pink with little or no edge of fat. Flecks of fat in the meat should show a pinkish tinge. Milk-fed veal is particularly good.

The principal cuts of veal are breast or shoulder, leg, loin and ribs. Veal is improved by the ageing process possible in the locker plant chill room.

We suggest that you plan on using your supply of veal within a period of twelve months after the time it is placed in your locker in order to enjoy its full flavor and quality.

THOUSANDS of doctors and nurses have joined the nation's armed forces... thus placing a greater responsibility than ever on housewives in helping to protect the health of America.

Health authorities recommend sanitary home cleansing, such as provided by Clorox, as a health protective measure. In routine cleansing of kitchen, bathroom and other household "danger zones" Clorox disinfects with intensified efficiency... deodorizes, removes stains, too. In laundering, Clorox gently bleaches white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors), makes them fresh-smelling, sanitary... lessens rubbing, conserving fabrics. For increased family health protection, and for whiter, brighter washes, use Clorox regularly as directed on the label. Clorox is pure, safe, dependable... concentrated for economy. Clorox is ultra-refined, free from caustic—an exclusive, patented quality-feature. There is only one Clorox... always ask for it by name.

FIRE TRAINING CLASS CLOSES

Over 100 In Attendance
At Wells Park For
2-Day Program

The first upper peninsula field training school for conservation officers, fire wardens and tower-men was concluded at the J. W. Wells state park at Cedar River Wednesday evening. Approximately 100 conservation department officials and technicians attended the two day sessions.

The school was conducted on a competitive basis with fire fighting teams from several upper peninsula conservation districts competing in construction of fire lines with hand tools, tractors, plows and bulldozers.

Baraga and Marquette districts tied for first place in the hand line construction contest on Tuesday morning and Crystal Falls nosed out the Sault Ste. Marie district by a single point in the tractor plow line contest.

Officers from the Escanaba district who attended the fire training school included Arthur Schaeffer, U. S. Forest Service fire technician; L. C. Brown, conservation officer, Escanaba; Allen Tweedy, conservation officer, Rapid River; William Haslund, fire warden, Escanaba; August Meyer, equipment operator, Escanaba; Howard Eldred, district game manager, Es-

Temporary Reserve Advisory Committee Meets In Escanaba

Members of the advisory committee of the United States Coast Guard Reserve (temporary) for the Green Bay Division met in Escanaba last evening on personnel matters.

The committee consists of the three division officers and two members of the Menominee-Marquette flotilla. Officers are Ensign canaba; Dan H. Raess, district supervisor, Escanaba.

Conservation Officer Allen Tweedy of Rapid River, mess sergeant, and Ella and Hilda Johnson, Rapid River, were the cooks for the school camp.

George N. Burridge, of Green Bay, the captain, Ensign Walter Hornstein, of Garden, vice captain, and Ensign L. Eric Jones, of Menominee, junior captain. Mr. Burridge acted as chairman and Ensign Hornstein acted as secretary.

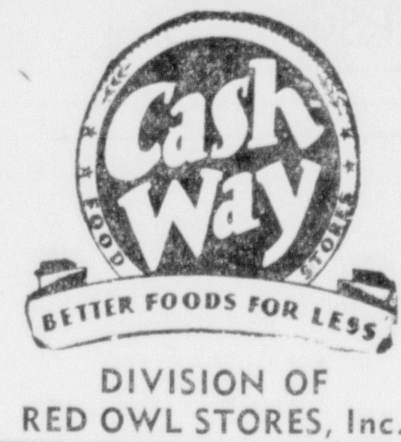

Mr. Burridge gave it as his opinion that a considerable expansion was about to take place in the amount of duty assigned to temporary members of the reserve in Escanaba and Gladstone, owing to the need of men of military age for sea duty in the battle zones. Drafts of regulars from COTP Escanaba already have caused heavier duties for the temporary reservists here. Men beyond military age with time to spare for naval war service at home should get in touch with the flotilla commanders at Escanaba and Gladstone, he said.

CLERKS HOLD BOND RALLY

Chairman Asp Tells Why Retail Persons Should Sell War Bonds

Unusual enthusiasm was the keynote of a Fifth War Loan bond rally held on the second floor of the Fair Store on Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock for all employees of the store. The meeting was called by Majorette Myrtle Johnson, an employee, and speakers were Chairman Gust Asp of the Retailers War Finance Committee and Charles Gessner.

Chairman Asp urged all-out effort on the part of employees and employers to meet and exceed Escanaba's retail quota of $131,850 in this Fifth War Loan drive.

Presenting the answers to the question "Why should any retail person sell bonds?" he said: "First, because the treasury asks them to. Second, it is the one patriotic job every retail person can do to help hasten victory without interference with their regular work. Third, it helps build buying power for the future. That means continued prosperity and job insurance. Fourth, nobody is asked to 'give' anything. They are merely asked to loan money to their government at the best rate of interest, and backed by the entire resources of the greatest country on the face of the earth—but none!"

Announcement was made that the Fair Store group of bond sellers has already secured pledges and sales for $39,000 worth of bonds.

Charles Gessner spoke briefly urging complete cooperation to the end that the aims of the drive will be met.

In recognition of the enthusiasm of the employees the management announced a contest in which the clerks selling the most bonds will be rewarded for their efforts. The prizes will be: first, $50 war bond; second, $25 war bond; third, $10 in war savings stamps; fourth, $5 in war savings stamps; fifth, $5 in war savings stamps.

The Civil Air Patrol League, organized to promote both civil and military aviation, covered 25,000,000 miles in coastal patrol in 19 months.

Reasons for Gas Rationing Shown

A recent survey made for the petroleum industry in eleven central states indicates that every third motorist you meet believes that gasoline rationing is unnecessary.

The survey further reveals that only one out of every twelve motorists knows the correct reason for rationing, which is according to a spokesman for the industry, to equitably distribute among everyone the gasoline that is left over after all necessary war requirements have been met.

In an effort to warn the motoring public that a breakdown of the present rationing system could leave many motorists without sufficient gasoline to operate their cars, the Petroleum Industry Committee for District 2 today launched a newspaper advertising campaign in all Sunday newspapers of the 15 states of District, including the Escanaba Daily Press.

Willkie Gives Advice To Republican Party

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—People have been wondering what Wendell Willkie would do. Well, now they've got their answer.

To the articles he's writing at the request of papers in various parts of the country, he can be applied that much abused word "statesmanship."

M. Childs

If the resolution committee in Chicago could, by some miracle, adopt the Willkie line—or part of it, even—the GOP would be put squarely in opposition to all that's worst in the Democratic party. What Willkie does in the articles that have appeared so far is to draw the line of opposition with the southern Bourbons who are engineering a major revolt against Roosevelt and the New Deal.

I'm afraid I would take almost a miracle to bring the GOP around to anything approaching the Willkie point of view. Too many Republicans have shown a desire to join up with Bourbonism and go one step further backward into a past that can never be recaptured.

He Quotes Hoover

In his first piece, on "States' rights and Federal power," Willkie stakes out his direction and, in succeeding articles, he moves toward his goal. Above all, he ac-water by its huge steel cable.

To show how rumors get around, one soldier said he had learned that the ship had a sailor standing at with an axe, for the sole purpose of hacking the cable in two if the ship were torpedoed. Later I asked the captain, and he said there wasn't any such man at all.

Funny little things happen in a convoy. The steering gear on one ship broke in midafternoon and the ship came slowly careening around like a skidding automobile until it was crosswise of the convoy and the ships behind had to veer around it.

You see, we were lined up in straight columns, extending as far ahead and behind as we could see. On both sides of us ran destroyers and Corvettes for escort, but as I've said before it never seems to the participants in a convoy that the escort is adequate.

Our only scare came late in the night before we hit the invasion area. I was in my bunk, and the colonel with whom I was rooming came down from the bridge.

"How are things going?" I asked.

"Terrible," he said. "Another convoy came along and pushed us out of the swept channel. One engine has broken clear down, and the other can only run at third speed. The wind and tide are drifting us toward the Belgian coast. We're steering straight west but barely holding our direction."

I thought how ironic it would be to wind up this war by drifting alone onto a hostile beach and spending the rest of the war in a prison camp—if we didn't hit a mine first. But fortunately I was too sleepy to worry about it. When I awakened at dawn we had both engines going and were back in line again in the swept channel. Moral: Always be too sleepy to give a damn.

Fears Disappeared

My own devastating sense of fear and depression, of which I have spoken before, disappeared the moment we were under way. As I write this, the old familiar crack and roar of big guns is all around us, and the beach is a great brown haze of smoke and dust, and we know that bombers will be over us tonight. Yet all that haunting premonition, that soul-consuming dread, is gone, and the war is prosaic to me again. And I believe that is true of everyone aboard, even those who have never been in combat before.

The night before sailing we were instructed to take two anti-sickness capsules before breakfast the next day, and follow them up with one every four hours throughout the voyage. The capsules had been issued to us with our battle kits.

Well, we took the first two and they almost killed us. The capsules have a strong sleeping powder in them, and by noon all the army personnel aboard were in a drugged stupor. Fortunately the Navy, being proud, didn't take any, so somebody was left to run the ship. The capsules not only put us to sleep but they constricted our throats, made our mouths bone-dry and dilated the pupils of our eyes until we could hardly see.

When we recovered from this insidious jax, along toward evening we all threw our seasickness medicine away, and after that we felt fine. Although the channel crossing was rough, I didn't hear of a single man aboard our ship who got sick.

cepts reality. And to prove it he quotes you'd never guess—Herbert Hoover's committee on recent social trends in a report published in 1933.

"The shifts from state to federal authority thus reflect the incapacity of the several states to deal with problems of transportation, communication, merchandising, labor-capital relations and other vital aspects of social and economic life."

States' rights versus strong federal government is not an issue but a relic, says Willkie. You can't break down the states into forty-eight separate economic units with forty-eight different minimum wage laws. This is a direct thrust at the compromises that the present administration has accepted in deference to the south.

The second article, on the negro hits even harder at compromises in Democratic ranks. Willkie would have the Republican party "unequivocally and specifically" committed to federal anti-poll tax and anti-lynching statutes.

But he goes further to say that the Negroes "right to work must be equal to that of any citizen and their reward should be the same as the reward of any other citizen for the same job." That's especially interesting in view of Governor Dewey's action in shelving a proposal put forward by a committee which the governor himself named to legislate equal economic opportunity for negroes in New York state.

Discusses Sound Security

On social security, Willkie again steps into a future that is already here, if only politicians had the vision to see it. Recognizing the force of individual initiative in American life, he also recognizes the need to "provide a minimum sustenance" in health and decency, regardless of a man's previous earnings. Add to this "complete medical care available to all."

I imagine that the Willkie articles will frighten the Republican resolutions committee out of the collective wits. Notoriously such committees, or whatever party, have been trimmers. They whittle and whittle, and what's left is usually as smooth as a bar of soap and just as slippery—nothing a forthright man could stand on.

Among the ninety-six members of the resolutions committee, which begins its session in Chicago next week, are Joseph P. Grundy, Pennsylvania's prophet of bigger and better tariffs, and the Chicago Tribune's Senator, C. Weyland "Curley" Brooks. If Willkie were to appear in person before the committee with his ideas embodied in resolutions, such men would not be exactly hospitable.

Platforms are framed to offend the fewest possible people; they're framed to win elections. In this year of all years, forthrightness and courage might come closer to doing that than a balance act. That, in fact, may be the only way to win.

Willkie, the leader of the party four years ago, was not even offered a place as delegate-at-large on the Republican delegation from his state. In all likelihood, he will not be at Chicago when his party meets there. But, nevertheless, the loud echo of his words will be heard in that Convention Hall.

HOME STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Severe Electrical, Rain
Storm Sweeps City
Yesterday

Lightning struck in two places during the sudden and severe electrical and rain storm which hit Gladstone shortly after noon yesterday.

The Joseph Weingartner home at 1401 Minnesota avenue was struck, the bolt entering through the roof, scattering shingles about the Grawey lawn next door. Inside it damaged the house wiring, ruined one radio and knocked over a floor lamp upstairs.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weingartner were in the house and luckily escaped harm.

It is theorized that the bolt followed a radio aerial to the roof.

Lightning also struck a large oak tree in the lot upon which the state police post is located, shattering the trunk and moving the bark at a considerable distance from the ground.

Ice-Breaker Mackinaw Largest Of Its Kind

By late next fall, the Great Lakes will have ready for operation the costliest, most powerful instrument for potential benefit to shipping that fresh water has ever had conferred upon it; namely, an icebreaker that will rival and perhaps surpass the ice-breaking giants the Russians, Swedes and Finns use in Arctic waters and the Baltic sea to keep their ships moving despite nature's handicaps.

Nothing like it has ever been attempted on the Great Lakes and it will outstrip anything that has yet floated on fresh water. The finishing touches on this super-ship are being applied in the yards of the Toledo Shipbuilding company in Ohio. It is the Coast Guard 5,000-ton ice breaker Mackinaw, the keel of which was laid March 20, 1943. It will cost $10,000,000.

The Mackinaw is presented as another of the nation's war essentials. Every spring the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes is at the mercy of ice conditions in the connecting waters. Whitefish bay, the extreme eastern angle of Lake Superior, always dictates when the season will begin. The ice forms heavily there, and more, driven in by the winds and gales of winter and early spring, piles up into windrows and bergs, defying passage of ships and even of ice-breakers that battle it annually, sometimes for weeks. Until that barrier is broken, ships that have successfully bucked the ice in the Sault river and entered the locks to pass into Lake Superior, either with cargoes of coal or limestone, and to get return cargoes of iron ore at Duluth, Superior, Two Harbors or Ashland, or grain at Duluth-Superior elevators, are imprisoned at Sault Ste. Marie, awaiting a break by the ice fighters.

Escanaba First to Open
It is likely that the Mackinaw will see its first ice-breaking duty next spring at Escanaba, which is always the first port to start shipping ore on the Great Lakes. For this reason, there is the possibility that some Lake Michigan port will be chosen as the permanent base of the large ice-breaker.

The government regards the Mackinaw as the answer to that. Equipped, as it will be, with 10,000 horsepower, it is expected that Whitefish bay will meet its master.

One would expect the shipping interests of the Great Lakes, the shipowners' vessel agents and those who depend upon this water route to carry their material to the steel plants and elevators in the East, to be exultant over the prospect of being able to start the lake season earlier, and with greater ease and less danger. But, so far as can be ascertained, they are in a doubtful state of mind about it. The consensus among a large number of such interests is that an ice-breaker of such vast power and capabilities is unnecessary, and that the cost is out of all proportion to the saving that can be made.

Lake men say that the average opening of navigation, which is in the first half of April, is time enough to handle the freight that is wanted in the east, for the coal and limestone shipped from the east to the west; for ice conditions are not alone to be reckoned with. When weather is severe enough to form ice that requires such a heavily powered ship to open channels, the sailing conditions are almost always prohibitive. Crews cannot work on open docks in navigable waters to any advantage in such temperatures; and flying spray and waves freeze and load the ship with ice to an extent that is perilous. The sailing conditions are trying enough when temperatures reach a point where ordinary ice-breakers are effective.

Only on Great Lakes

The Mackinaw cannot be used anywhere but on the Great Lakes, for her size landlocks here. Her 75-foot beam will permit her to pass through the Welland canal, which connects traffic between Lakes Erie and Ontario, but her length, 290 feet, and her beam, 100 feet, forbid her passing through the Lachine canal in the St. Lawrence river, which can accommodate vessels of not more than 260 feet in length and 45 feet beam. Her beam bars her from canal and river connections with the Mississippi; the Erie canal is out of the question, of course; and the three largest canals of the Sault, each 80 feet, will barely let her through.

One of the announcements concerning the Mackinaw that rather awes the marine men is about the manning of the ship and supplying her crew. The Mackinaw will have 12 officers and 164 men, all Coast Guardsmen, and can be provisioned for six months. The ship will be a community within itself. Besides well-conditioned quarters for the crew and the usual mess facilities, there will be a motion picture projector, service and clothing stores, and a canteen, the latter carrying the usual supplies of such a department, and there will be a complete laundry, and extensive workshop with complete facilities for electric, machine and radio work, and a canvas repair shop. The Mackinaw's displacement, 5,090 tons, will be about three times that of a modern destroyer of the Benson or Bristol class, and almost as large as some of our light cruisers. She will be 290 feet long, with 75 feet beam and 19 feet draft. The beam will be, by far, the largest on the Great Lakes.

Initial power will be provided by diesel engines, which will drive three electric generators, which in turn, will provide power for three electric propulsion motors, turning three propellers, one at the bow and two at the stern. This is the Baltic type of propulsion. However, the bow propeller was the idea of an American, Frank E. Kirby, famous on the Great Lakes. American builders did not take to it, preferring the propellerless, catamaran bow, which has been known as the American type. The Russians and others saw the possibilities of the bow propeller and the heavy ice they have to encounter, and have developed it. Now it is to be tried in its home waters.

The bow propeller, it is explained, is used to churn the water beneath the ice, changing its static buoyancy, thus making it easier for the vessel to break it down.

Has Large Hull
The hull of the Mackinaw is massive, really a ship within a ship. The outside plates will be 1 3/8 inches thick up to the ice belt, and 1 5/8 inches thick through the ice belt. Truss frames will be spaced on 16-inch centers. Oil fuel capacity will be 440,000 gallons. The Mackinaw will be insulated against 30 degrees below zero weather. Besides being able to crush ice of almost any possible thickness, the Mackinaw will be powerful enough to tow large ships while at work in the ice. It will have a notched stern, so that a freighter for which the Mackinaw is opening a channel in the ice can ease her bow into the notch and travel along.

It is planned to use the Mackinaw during the summer months to handle the heaviest buoys on the lakes, to carry oil to distant lighthouses, also for salvaging operations when necessary, and as a training ship.

Approximately 4,000,000 passenger cars were scrapped in the two-year period following Pearl Harbor.

LOWELL SUNDRUM
MANAGER

NEW, LOW POWER RATES LISTED

Manager Hentschell Says
New Rates Will Save $9,000

A saving of more than $9,000 to electric power consumers in Manistique will result from the new voluntary reduction in rates effective with the June, 1944 billings, according to R. G. Hentschell, manager of the Manistique Light and Power Company.

Mr. Hentschell estimates that on the basis of past consumption of electrical energy in Manistique the following annual savings will result: residential users: $3,200; commercial users: $4,500; commercial power: $250; street lighting: $1,200; total, $9,150.

He pointed out that the reduction in the residential lighting rate is of a promotional character, and provides an incentive for the increased use of appliances.

Commercial power customers, he said, will appreciate the elimination of the present demand rate which has confused them in the past. The new rate is strictly a block rate and the availability has been broadened to include all fractional HP motors with a connected load up to and including 2 HP. This rate will eliminate 55 customers presently billed under the commercial lighting rate.

Thus it will give consumers the benefit of the added consumption at the lower rate brackets.

The new schedule eliminates the present commercial heating, cooking and school rates, and includes them in the commercial lighting rate. This rate will now permit simplified wiring layouts and is an all-purpose rate.

The general power classification will now permit the extended consumption of current, he pointed out, at a much lower rate in the higher brackets of consumption.

A new rate has been set up for off-peak water heating. This is a type of service which the utility expects to become quite popular when water heaters are again made available after the war.

"The street lighting rates have been lowered approximately $1200.00 per year, and it is the utility's intention that after the war the present goose-neck type fixtures on the corner are lights will be replaced with modern up to date lighting fixtures," Mr. Hentschell stated.

"The new schedule of rates will eliminate inequalities and undesirable features in the levels of rate schedules for various classes of service, and reduce the number of classifications. It is pointed out, however, that in no instance are the new rates in excess of those that previously prevailed."

Manistique Light and Power Company entered into a franchise with the city of Manistique in 1935 to supply electrical power to the city for a period of 29 years. In accepting the new rate schedule, the city council's resolution stated that the franchise would not be jeopardized through such a change. The new rate schedule had previously been approved by the state Public Service Commission.

Following are some of the new rates being offered by the utility:

Middlebrook Bldg. Is Purchased At Price of $2500

Purchase of the Middlebrook building on Deer street at a price of $2500 for use as a youth center was announced this week by a board of trustees acting for the Manistique Youth Council.

Trustees Elmer Lundstrom, Dr. George Shaw and Omer Schuster said that they had effected the purchase of the former grocery. Although the price of the building was $2500, $100 was returned by Mr. Middlebrook as his contribution to the youth center fund.

A down payment of $400 was made and $50 per month will be paid until the balance is paid.

Howard Graff, youth council chairman, stated that plans for the conversion of the building into a recreation site for Manistique's young people have already been made and that work would begin at once. It is expected that the youth center will be completed in time for opening when school starts in September.

Graff revealed that later in the summer arrangements will be made to open the building for public inspection. The entire youth council will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Middlebrook building to inspect the building and begin plans for its operation.

RECEIVE SECOND CALL FROM NAVY Four Men To Leave On June 28; Explain New Ruling

A call for 4 men for Naval service, the second call this month, was received by Schoolcraft county draft board Thursday.

The group will leave here June 28 by train and report the following morning for active duty in Milwaukee.

It will be the last group to leave Manistique for a specific branch of the service, according to new rulings which go into effect July 1. After that date, a common pool of men available for military duty will be set up by the local board. Calls will be filled for military duty, and not individually for the Army or Navy. Under the new ruling, groups will go to a common induction station where they will be selected for the various branches of the service as needed.

Volunteers after July 1 cannot be assured of being placed in the service they request, it was pointed out. Registrants may volunteer at the pre-induction station provided they waive the 21 day waiting period. Other volunteers will not be given assurance that they will be placed in the service designated.

Four Pass at Marquette
The local board yesterday released the names of four registrants who were accepted for military service when examined at the Marquette pre-induction station early this month. Those who qualified were Virgil Henry, Clyde Latsch, Harold Liberman and Orvid Swisher. Two transfers also were accepted: Harold Gauthier and George Bays.

Cleveland Noses Detroit, 3-2, In 13 Innings; Yanks Lose, 3 To 2

DEFEAT SIXTH ONE FOR TROUT

Tigers Outbit Indians But Leave 14 Hitters Stranded On Bases

Cleveland, June 15 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians pushed home a run in the 13th inning today to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 2, for an even break in their four-game series. It was the sixth defeat for hard-working Paul Trout, who missed for a second time in a bid for his eighth victory.

Trout went the distance for the Tigers, but in the 13th Oris Hockett looped a double to left field with one out and scored on a single to center by Paul O'Dea, rookie outfielder who served apprenticeship with Flint in the Michigan State League.

Trout had only one other had inning, the seventh, when the Indians seized a two-run lead. With two out Buddy Roser singled for the third hit off Trout. Ken Keltner drew a pass and Russ Peters and Pitcher Allie Reynolds singled, scoring two runs.

Rally in Ninth
The Tigers rallied in the ninth to send the game into extra innings. Chuck Hostetler, who gathered three hits, opened with a single. Bob Swift walked, Charley Metro coming in as a pinch runner. Hostetler advanced on Trout's fly and scored on Joe Hoover's double, Metro stopping at third. The Indians passed Roger Cramer intentionally, but Eddie Mayo hit a fly, scoring Metro, before relief Pitcher Ed Kileman disposed of Rudy York.

Kileman was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the ninth and Grandpa Joe Heving, who relieved him, stopped the Tigers to become the winning pitcher. Detroit's best threat in extra frames came in the tenth when Pinky Higgins walked and advanced on Jimmy Outlaw's sacrifice and Hostetler's infield single. Paul Richards ended the inning by grounding into a double play.

The Tigers outbit Cleveland, 11 to 9, but left 14 stranded on the bases as compared to Cleveland's ten. Hockett's double that set off the winning rally was purely a blooper but O'Dea then contributed a sharp single past Hoover.

The victory gave Cleveland a 6 to 5 edge over the Tigers this season, and it jarred Detroit's hold on the American League's third place. The Tigers return home tomorrow to meet the St. Louis Browns in a twilight game that opens a four-game series.

CROWD ONLY 770
Boston, June 15 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox made all but one of their six hits count today as they chalked up their ninth straight win by besting the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 1, before a 770 crowd, the smallest in several years.

Tex Hughson hurled the victory, his ninth of the season, which moved the Soxers to within a half-game of the top-place St. Louis Browns, who were idle.

After collecting two runs on their first two hits against Luman Harris in the first and fourth innings, the Soxers staged their only offensive outburst with two out in the sixth.

Bob Johnson set off the fireworks by belting his fourth home of the year and, after Bobby Doerr doubled and Manager Joe Cronin walked, Skeeter Newsome tripled. Philadelphia 000 010 000—1 6 1

SENATORS TAKE YANKS
Gliffith Stadium, Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP)—Southpaw Mickey Haefer scattered New York's seven blows as Washington edged out the Yankees, 3 to 2, before 10,089 spectators tonight.

The Senators' third win in the four-game series with the New Yorkers.

The Senators clipped Joe Page for eight blows, including a triple by Roberto Ortiz. Cuban outfielder, that netted two runs in the sixth. Ortiz came home on a wild pitch a minute later.

The Yankees also scored in the sixth when George Strinweiss walked and circled the sacks on Johnny Lindell's three bagger, his third blow of the game.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The controversy of night baseball vs. day baseball is developing into a landslide for more big league games under the lights—with the amazing possibility that even the big show, the annual world's series, may be played in 1944, in part, at least at night. The attendance figures for night baseball have been so convincingly larger than daytime attendance that even the most stalwart foes of night baseball are beginning to see the light—or should we say, the lights. Imagine, for instance, the New York Yankees, playing four successive night games. They are doing it this week in Washington.

The Yankees do not have a lighted field, because of the belligerent opposition of Ed Barrow, club president. It has been urged on Barrow to play at least one test game under the lights at the Polo Grounds, home of the Giants, but Dan Daniels, New York baseball writer, claims Barrow's pride prevents his asking for the loan of the National League park. It is regarded as almost a certainty, however, that the Yankees, once mighty foe of Mazda baseball, will install their own lighting system as soon as materials, now frozen for war use, are made available again.

To get back to the possibility of the world's series being played at night—The St. Louis Cardinals are regarded as almost a clinch for the National League pennant, with the other St. Louis club, the Browns of the American League, making a strong bid for the junior league title. If the world's series develops into strictly a St. Louis show, there is every indication that the whole series, except the Sunday game, will be played at night, under the lights. The Browns and the Cards are sold on night baseball and have the attendance reports to back up their contention.

After the Tigers lost such outfield talent as Hank Greenberg, then Barney McCosky and finally Dick Wickerfield, the Detroit club appeared in bad shape for a competent left fielder, but along came Jimmy Outlaw, Outlaw, a 4-ft-11 with flat feet, has filled in the hole so admirably for the Tigers that Detroit fans are still looking hopefully for another world's series show in the automobile city. Outlaw has helped the team immeasurably, including some timely hitting when the chips were down. Manager Steve O'Neill is sold on Outlaw, a rookie at 31, who is one of the best defensive men the Tigers have had in the outer garden.

Hit and Miss—Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies, recently was promoted to sergeant in the army—He is stationed at Camp Grant, Illinois—Deflation—Johnny Gee cost the Pittsburgh Pirates $75,000 in 1940—They sold him the other day to the New York Giants at the waiver price—$7,500—The Boston Braves have booked a twilight game with the Phillies at Boston June 20, the first twilight affair ever staged at Braves Field—Joe Gordon, former Yankee shortstop, is playing with the Camp Luna, N. M. Airtrance this season.

The letter winners announced today are Bruce Blanchard, Bowman, Ketterer, Lund and Swanson, Detroit; Farnyk, Dearborn; Jack Hackstadt, Saginaw; Dennis Manko, Pontiac; P. H. P. S. St. Johns; Schmidtke, St. Joseph; Bill Gregor, Edwardsville, Ill.; Hirsch, Wausau, Wis.; Kell, Kankakee, Ill.; Bob Nuschanner, Oak Park, Ill.; Stevenson, New York; and Bob Wiese, Jamestown, N. D.

Minor awards went to Bill Nelson, Dearborn, and Al Willers, Slinger, Wis.

Profits of the game, which last year exceeded $66,000, will be divided between the Army Air Force Aid Society and the Chicago Service Men's Centers.

Ward said many of the top athletes of 1943 and 1942 have arranged to take their furloughs at All-Star game time and will be inducted on the roster.

Last year the All Stars, coached by a staff headed by Wisconsin's Harry Stuhldreher, whipped the Redskins 27-7.

The lineup for the Sox will be: B. Pruetz 2b, J. Ross p, G. Schills lf, M. Miron cf, D. Duffene lb, J. Hirt c, P. Brateau rf, R. Moran ss, R. Seldi 3b, E. DeGrand, C. Holzgrebe, Charles Hirt.

GIANTS SHARE TIE FOR THIRD

Dodgers Trounced, 9-2; Mel Ott Hits His 17th Homer

New York, June 15 (AP)—With Harold Gregg taking all the punishment, while issuing 11 bases on balls, and Mel Ott poling his 17th homer with two aboard, the New York Giants moved into a tie for third place with the Cincinnati Reds by trouncing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9 to 2, before 22,758 fans tonight.

Manager Lou Durocher allowed Gregg to stay five frames and he gave up nine runs, three on Ott's homer with two on, one on Nap Reyes' force, which counted Joe Medwick, another on Johnny Rucker's single, George Hausman's sacrifice and Phil Weintraub's double.

Gregg forced four runs across the plate as he issued six bases on balls in the fifth round.

Augus Galan's sixth homer with Stan Bordagary on in the eighth saved the Dodgers from a shutout.

PHILS 5; BRAVES 4
Philadelphia, June 15 (AP)—The Phillies came from behind twice to win from the Boston Braves 5 to 4 at Shibe Park tonight.

Ford Muller's eighth inning single, with two out, scored Jimmy Wasdell, who had doubled to start the inning, with the winning run.

The Braves had tied the game in the first half of the eighth when Al Wright, new Boston outfielder, pinch-hit Butch Nieman across the plate.

The game started as a battle of Barretts—Dick pitching for the Phillies, and Charlie for the Braves—but both left the game in the eighth. Ken Raffensberger got credit for the win and Jim Tobin was charged with the loss.

Phil Masi, Boston catcher, was put out of the game in the turbulent eighth for protesting a called third strike too vigorously.

LOVE TALLY IN NINTH
Cincinnati, June 15 (AP)—A ninth-inning single by Bob Elliott, a foreplay and Tommy De la Cruz' only walk of the day gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 1-0 victory over Cincinnati today to nullify the lanky Cuban's four-hit pitching.

Until the ninth, De la Cruz paraded out just two safeties to Jim Russell in the fourth and to Max Butcher, his opposing moundsman, in the sixth. Butcher got his second single to open the ninth and was victim of the forceout as Jeep Handley tried to sacrifice.

Handley advanced as Jim Russell walked and scored on Elliott's single.

The Reds, who lost three of four games to St. Louis and two of their three with the Bucs, blew several scoring chances while racking up eight hits off Butcher.

Armstrong Scores A Technical Kayo Over Bummy Davis

New York, June 15 (AP)—Hammering Henry Armstrong battered Al "Bummy" Davis to the canvas in quick order at Madison Square Garden tonight, scoring a technical knockout in 69 seconds, of the second round. Davis was down for counts of eight and nine in the first round.

One of those was William Beyer, 17, who was on top of the roof when it collapsed.

Police said that six persons had been removed to hospitals but added that scores of others reported minor bruises. There were an estimated 5,100 persons attending the game.

The field lights went out as the storm struck and thousands of persons poured out of the stands as the light poles swayed in the wind. Heavy rain followed.

The game was called in the seventh inning with the score tied 5-5.

Twirler Gumbert Is Sold To Reds

St. Louis, June 15 (AP)—Pitcher Harry Gumbert has been sold to the Cincinnati Reds by the St. Louis Cardinals for an unannounced sum. No other player was involved in the deal.

The transaction came as a surprise as Gumbert has been a winning pitcher for the Cards since he joined the team in 1941. The Cardinals are already below the summer limit of 25 players.

U.S.G.A. Is Missing Boat In Failure To Hold Tourney

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, June 15 (AP)—We sometimes wonder whether or not the United States Golf Association, now virtually in a state of suspended animation, will be able to gather up all the loose ends after the war and resume operations with the same prestige it always has enjoyed.

Prestige as it concerns its tournaments, that is, since while the U. S. G. A., with every good intention suspended its national tournaments immediately after we entered the war, privately-sponsored events have been gaining in momentum.

The U. S. G. A. theory is that any national tournament today is non representative since possible winners are unable to compete because of service connections, and this in a sense is true, although you practically can count on your fingers the absentee players whom you would give any kind of a chance to win.

Baseball Picks Champs
The other side of that picture is that major league baseball is continuing and world champions are crowned despite the fact that some teams that conceivably might be contenders are so weakened by player losses their chances are negligible. Maybe the world series winner isn't a normally representative team, but it is a representative war-time team and the winner of a national golf tournament now would be a representative war-time champion.

The national open, of course, has something that no Johnny-come-lately tournament can match, and that is tradition. That always has been its forte, as from the angle of prize money it is something of small potatoes.

The real prize for the winner of the open, were he a pro, was the chance to cash in on exhibitions, endorsements and other by-products of the fleeting fame.

With prize money today reaching unheard of amounts the pros are liable to get the idea some other tournament, such as George May's circus, is THE tournament, tradition regardless.

Naturally the U. S. G. A. will continue to control the amateurs, and we cannot imagine another organization or individual successfully promoting a national amateur, or desiring to promote one, for that matter.

With the exception of the U. S. G. A. national events, tournaments are rated in importance by the amount of the prize money. The same as horse races are rated by the size of the purse and prize fights by the gate.

The U. S. G. A. has one sure way to bring its national open back to the top. That is to make the prize money exceed that of any other tournament. And another thing is equally sure: The U. S. G. A. will do no such thing.

Why, that's nothing but sordid commercialism. The prestige for the winner should be enough, although the pros would probably swap you a pocketful of prestige for a $10,000 or $15,000 first prize, in cash.

Grandstand Roof Blows Off During Game At Milwaukee
Milwaukee, June 15 (AP)—At least six persons were injured tonight, some of them seriously, when part of the roof of the grandstand at Borchert Field was blown down during a violent windstorm which struck in the seventh inning of an American Association game between Milwaukee and Columbus.

One of those was William Beyer, 17, who was on top of the roof when it collapsed.

Police said that six persons had been removed to hospitals but added that scores of others reported minor bruises. There were an estimated 5,100 persons attending the game.

Prospects Bright For Trout Fishing

Lansing, June 15 (AP)—The State Conservation Department reported in an informal survey today that week-end trout fishing prospects are bright.

Fly fishermen in the western half of the Upper Peninsula have reported excellent luck, as the result of insect hatches and the return of streams to normal levels. The department said the outlook for the opening June 25 of pan-fish lakes are excellent.

Elsewhere in the state both trout and lake fishing are showing improvement, according to reports.

FEDERAL AUTO STAMP ON SALE

$5 Tax Sticker Needed
On Motor Vehicles
After June 30

The sale of federal motor vehicle use tax stamps began at the Escanaba postoffice yesterday, with the receipt of 2,000 of the stickers from the collector of internal revenue. As usual, the tax is five dollars.

After June 30, motorists traveling on the highways without the new stamps will be subject to federal prosecution. The tax covers the period from July 1, 1944, to June 30, 1945.

Commandery Meets Here On Saturday

Escanaba Commandery, Knights Templar, will hold a special Conclave Saturday afternoon and evening. The Order of the Red Cross will be conferred beginning at 2 o'clock and a dinner will be served at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 o'clock, followed by the Templar Degree at 7:30 o'clock. Five candidates will be given the Order of Knighthood. A large delegation of Templars from Manistique will attend, and all Sir Knights of this district are urged to be present.

Briefly Told

Report Cards—Students of the Escanaba high school are asked to call at the principal's office today to get their report cards.

Correction — Application for a marriage license has been made at the county clerk's office by Reynold Vanlerberghe and June De-genette, not by Roland Vanlerberghe, as erroneously reported Thursday.

Crosby Square AIRFILM SHOES

A layer of sealed air cells protects you from Summer's scorching pavements (or from Winter's icy streets) . . . And you walk on air—a real comfort thrill.
Airfilm, fully pneumatic, actually 65%
air, lies between insole and outsole, heel to toe—supports your entire body weight—a cushion against shocks—protection against moisture . . . Enjoy the cushioned comfort of popular Airfilm
Shoes. Come in
